A LIVERPOOL LADY.

she is Recognized as a Charitable Woman in Pittsburg.

The Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph of Saturday evening contains the following:

Mrs. R. H. Gilliford is one of the most charming women of the two cities. Her work on behalf of charity has been wide and effective, and as a club woman her ability has made her a recognized leader in its work. She is skilled in parliamentary ruling and able in debate. Mrs. Gilliford is a member of the Presbyterian church and has done good service as a member of the Allegheny Relief society, the Protestant Boys' Home board, and is interested in the Allegheny general hospital. She is the wife of Dr. R. H. Gilliford and resides on Beaver avenue, Allegheny. She is a sister of Homer Laughlin, the well known manufacturer, of East Liverpool, O. Mrs. Gilliford's early life was spent on a farm, where her books were her friends. A beautiful picture of this early home adorns the walls of her home in Allegheny. Dr. and Mrs. Gilliford are now on a visit to California.

NO DECISION.

The Water Trustees Have Reached No Conclusion.

The trustees of the water works held a meeting to discuss the plan to extend the high service, but no conclusion was reached. They discussed the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed extension, and talked over the expense and the return from such an improvement. There were no manufacturers present, the idea being to talk over the plan among the authorities. Another meeting will be held soon, for which a call will be issued when the date is decided.

Mezzofanti's Memory.

Cardinal Mezzofanti had a memory little short of miraculous. Dr. Russell, his biographer, says that the cardinal spoke with the greatest ease 30 languages; that he spoke fairly well 9; that he used occasionally, but not with any fluency, 11 more; that he spoke imperfectly 8, and that he could read 11 more. Taking, in addition, the number of dialects he used, some so diverse from the mother tongue as to constitute a different language, Dr. Russell says that the cardinal was master of no less than 111 different languages and dialects. His German was so excellent that he was taken for a native of Germany, while his French and English were equally pure. Dr. Tholuck heard him converse in German, Arabic, Spanish, Flemish, English, Latin, Greek, Swedish and Portuguese at one of the pope's receptions, and afterward Mezzofanti gave him an original poem in Persian and left him to take a lesson in Cornish. He knew several of the American Indian languages and nearly all the dialects of India.

Only His Buttons Left.

An instance of the great dissolving powers of sulphuric acid is furnished by an accident which recently occurred in the chemical factories at Mulhouse, Alsace. An operative was blown up into the air and fell into a trough filled about three feet deep with sulphuric acid, the temperature of which was found to be 91 degrees C. ten hours after the accident. The death of the man was only proved by the discovery of his caoutchouc respirator, muzzle, two porcelain buttons and other insoluble articles. Everything else had chemically combined with the acid.—London Engineer.

Oscar Wilde.

Oscar Wilde is a walking epigram factory. When an idea comes into his head that seems available as a disguise for truth he writes it down at once. It doesn't matter whether he is at a stately dinner party or in conversation at a club. His pad and pencil are always with him and the pockets of his clothes are never free from slips of paper containing startling paradoxes clothed in crisp language.—New York World.

Tramps Walk.

Johnny—Papa, where do tramps get all their money to make European trips? Papa—Who said tramps made European trips? Johnny—Nobody I know of, but there's so much in the papers about tramp steamers that I thought they all did.—Roxbury (Mass.) Gazette.

The "candles" of the Romans consisted of a string made of rags and a small vessel of rancid fat.

Henry VIII paid the equivalent of $17 in our money for a dog.

In a Good Position.

When the Jolly Oil company of Pittsburg decided to test their territory in West Virginia they arranged to put down a well that will tell them what is under four pieces of land as the oil men gauge it. The well is on the Nieswonger farm, near where it touches the Pugh, Snowden and Stewart properties. The rig for the well was oiled on Saturday, and drilling will be commenced next week. The people are wondering how rich they will be when the sand is struck.

Spent the Day In Irondale.

Agent Thomas and wife spent Sunday with Agent Marshall and family in Irondale.

George Smith and wife went to Irondale yesterday, where they were the guests of the Webber family.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Yates were in Irondale yesterday calling on Mr. Yates' brother, who met with an accident at the mill on Saturday. He missed his footing and fell into a vat, burning one of his feet severely.

East End Loading.

Complaint comes from the East End that street corner loading has assumed such proportions as to bring condemnation upon the heads of those who make it a practice. The practice is trimmed out in the objectionable features seen in the central part of the city, tobacco juice and profanity being the principal troubles. The people there want the practice stopped, and propose to take action if the authorities do not act.

McGrew Didn't Like It.

Robert McGrew who moved his family and shipped his household goods from Wellsville to this city last week, has left the city. He had his effects sent to Brown's today.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Merchants did a good business on Saturday evening, the streets being thronged with people.

Miss Ella McMasters is seriously ill at her home near Cook's Ferry, with an attack of spinal trouble.

Wellsville was in town in force on Saturday evening, dozens of people from the neighboring city being seen on the streets.

There was less bicycle riding between this city and Rochester yesterday than for several weeks and only two made the trip each way on their wheels.

The water works trustees contemplate cleaning all the fire plugs in the city on Wednesday and Thursday, and are warning consumers to remember the dates.

Staff Captain Parker and several Salvationists from the Cleveland division of the army spent Sunday with the local bands, and special services were held at the barracks in honor of their visit.

The funeral of the little child of James Wright which died Saturday, took place from the family residence in East End yesterday. The remains were taken to Long's Run cemetery, for interment.

The fountain in the Diamond was patronized by hundreds of thirsty people yesterday. It has been suggested that it would present a better appearance if painted the same color as the monument.

"I am glad merchants are going to put their advertising cards in the street cars" remarked an observing resident today. "Even the announcement of unheard of bargains is better to look at than the walls of those dingy old cars."

The Rechabites gave a pleasant social in their hall Saturday night and made a success of it in every way. Despite the sultry weather the attendance was large, and the proceeds amounted to a sum which was entirely satisfactory.

Will L. Taylor met with an accident this morning that will cause him pain when he attempts to ride his wheel. He was cleaning the chain of his bicycle when his fingers were caught in the sprocket, and lacerated before they could be taken out.

A couple of lusty young potters fought a hard battle along the railroad track near East End Saturday evening. The battle was a dispute as to the wages each should receive for a certain kind of work, and one of the parties wears a black eye as a result.

A reception will be given to Reverend Sears and bride on their return to East End, Friday evening, by the members of the Second Methodist Episcopal church. The wedding as announced recently takes place at the home of the bride down the river, this week, and the happy couple will occupy a newly furnished home in East End.

The Diamond well was started again Saturday evening and an ever changing crowd proved that the fountain has lost none of its popularity and that people soon find where they can get pure water. The taste and smell has been greatly improved upon, although it never interfered with the purity of the water. The new fountain will be gilded and otherwise beautified soon.

The choral union are pushing preparations for their concert, and expect to have all things in readiness at the appointed time. They were anxious to secure the excellent piano owned by the Phoenix club, probably the best in the city, but the construction of the rooms of the club are such that it could not be moved, and it is probable that an instrument will be obtained in Pittsburg.

Mills Bennett, the well-known mouldmaker at the Union pottery, will leave tonight for Pittsburg, where he will attend the national convention of the Musical union. The meeting will extend through the week, musicians from every part of the country being in attendance. The local organization is strong, containing all the professional musicians in the city.

The desire for a quiet ride has taken firm hold upon some willing wheelmen in the city, and they steal the early morning hours for their pleasure. On Saturday morning a party of riders went to Smith's Ferry by way of Cannon's Mill, and enjoyed a delightful ride. They met with the usual annoyance in the way of dogs, but that could not kill the pleasure of the trip. This morning Dr. John Lloyd Lee and Reverend Whitehead started for a ride to Pittsburg. They left at an early hour.

There is a rumor that two new trains will soon be placed on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road. One will go to Pittsburg in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The trains will be an accommodation for those who have a few minutes business in the city, and will form an extension of the passenger service now enjoyed by people of the river division. It is not known what date the trains will begin active service, but it will probably be at the time the schedule is changed for the summer.

LOOKING FOR JOHNSON

Chief Gill Would Like to Find a Tailor.

SAID HIS CHILD WAS ILL

And he Went Home to Youngstown After Borrowing Some Money. His Wife Declares the Story is Untrue, and Wrote Here for His Old Clothes—Creditors Want Him Returned for Settlement.

Several weeks ago a man giving the name of J. R. Johnson came here from Youngstown, and being a tailor who could make clothes, secured employment with a Broadway merchant.
He boarded at the Hotel Grand, and in time met a congenial crowd of young fellows who found in him a pleasant companion. He was popular, and while he seemed willing to work was also in the habit of spending his money freely. A week ago the NEWS REVIEW contained an innocent looking personal which said that Johnson had been called to Youngstown by the dangerous illness of his child. According to Johnson's story the personal was all right, but later developments show that there was something wrong. Before going away Johnson borrowed $5 from Frank Stewart, $2 from Will Stewart, a small amount from his employer, and several attempts to borrow from his friends are recorded. He left a board bill of $30. They waited patiently for him to return, and when nothing was heard from Youngstown, inquiry was made, with the result that letters came from Johnson's wife. In that she explained that he had deserted her and she wanted his acquaintances here to send any clothes he had left behind. This seemed unusual to the creditors of Johnson, and they placed the case in the hands of Chief Gill, who has been corresponding with the Youngstown police in an effort to find him. As yet he has not been located.

This Collar
Is Still in Good Condition.

That's because it's the "CELLULOID" Collar. Its original cost was 25 cts., and it cost the wearer nothing afterwards to keep it clean. When soiled, simply wipe off with sponge or wet cloth.

These collars and cuffs are waterproof, and are the only waterproof goods made with an interlining of linen; therefore the only ones that can last and give absolute satisfaction. Every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

LOSS OF THE PRESIDENT.

Strange Story of the Scuttling of a Great Steamship by Pirates.

What a strange story is that communicated by the Duke of Newcastle to The Globe concerning the loss of the President! He says that a trustworthy informant in the United States assured him that a sailor, dying in an American port, had confessed to having formed one of the crew of a pirate vessel which captured the great steamship. "Every soul on board was made to walk the plank, and the ship was scuttled."

The story seems incredible, yet it may be true, and the possibility of it gives one quite a shock. It is 50 years ago and more since the President disappeared from human sight, without, I believe, leaving a trace. The loss of no other vessel—for it was the first of the great passenger ships to go—has caused so great an excitement. How those at home clung to hope, some of them for years—for the notion of the crew being wrecked on some out of the way island was eagerly adopted—and how many a heart was broken by the intolerable suspense! At last it was generally concluded that the ship had collided with an iceberg and foundered. And now comes this terrible story, which, it is fortunate, was not conceived of when it would have had the power to make those at home more miserable.

It is not to be forgotten, however, that more than one story has been recently written upon this subject—the capture and scuttling of a passenger steamer—and it seems more likely that they have suggested the idea being adapted to the loss of the President than that a solitary pirate should have revealed such a long kept secret of the seas.—London News.

Mystified by an Abbreviation.

Among the stories told about the experiences of police telegraph operators by the attaches of the electrical bureau is one which relates to an ex special officer, who is now a regular operator at a substitution up town. While acting as "sub" in a West Philadelphia district he received a call from the central, which he promptly wrote on his slate as he received it. At the close of the message he found that it read: "Send wagon to Phil. Hosp. and learn condition of Hen. Coop." He was completely stalled. He could not imagine who Phil. Hosp. was, nor where he was to be found, nor what particular hen-coop the central was interested in. He felt that there was a mistake somewhere, but was satisfied that it must be at the other end of the wire. As the hour was near relieving time, he decided to wait and consult his relief before sending the wagon on a wild goose chase or asking the central to repeat.
On the arrival of his relief he was informed that the operator who had sent the message generally abbreviated his messages, and probably the one received would read: "Send wagon to Philadelphia hospital and learn condition of Henry Cooper." This proved to be the proper solution.—Philadelphia Record.

Peter the Great.

Peter the Great of Russia had the typical face of a Russian peasant. A short, thick nose, with large nostrils, heavy brows, full, sensual lips, wide mouth and high cheek bones were among his most prominent features. His head was almost round and showed by its width at the ears that combativeness of disposition that was one of the leading points in his character.

Despoiled the Yard.

A party of boys helped themselves to the flowers in a yard on Fifth street last night, and the lady of the house chanced to see the theft. She talked long and loud, but the boys only laughed and walked away.

A Sunday Excursion.

The Liberty from Wheeling brought a large excursion to the city yesterday afternoon. The passengers were given ample opportunity to see the town, and availed themselves of it by wandering to the hill streets.

A Shipment of the Celebrated

Brighton Table Salt.

The phrase, "It is the Best," when applied to Brighton Salt means something; an assertion that is truthful, and a fact which can be proved by scientific analysis. Brighton Salt is the most perfect article of its kind ever manufactured; more lustrous and beautiful than any other. It is pure and wholesome, while a large bulk of the salt sold is impure and dirty. A tablespoonful of Brighton Table Salt dissolved in a glass of filtered water, produces a brine as clean and clear as a crystal. Any other test made will prove its purity, hence its value for general household purposes, and for making butter and cheese.
